WHEN WE DEPART

Your sad smile and mine
And our tears will silently speak
When we say "Good bye".

And as we depart
I'll remember all "bunt you"
But the words "Good bye".

Day and night I'll dream
Of you. And the dreams alone
Shall keep me alive.

The sad, slow twilight
Shall bring you so I can see
In each of my tears.

And the soft pillow
Shall be hard and wet and cold
Beneath my waking eyes.

So long, so silent
And so dark's the lonely night
That seems for ever.

Yet, there I shall stay
Counting each of the long days
That you are away
